know his actual position without delay, as could only be done by telegraph, rather than permit him to be placed in an awkward position as he would be if the notification were delayed.

The Difference of Long Standing

Judging from the points made by Sir Frederick Borden, it may be gathered that the Minister of Militia and the general officer commanding did not form a mutual admiration society, and that in fact, their lack of admiration for each other had been of some standing. Mr. Monk had attempted to make a point against the Minister's present position by reading extracts from a speech delivered by him in Montreal, in which he spoke in very complimentary terms of Lord Dundonald. In reply to this Sir Frederick said that the speech was delivered to an entirely military gathering. At that time the differences between himself and Lord Dundonald had not developed. However much that speech might reflect upon his discretion or discernment, or, in short, upon his head, he submitted that it could not be discredited to his credit. He had wished to represent Lord Dundonald to his subordinates in the most favorable light possible in order that all might work together for the good of the force. He suggested a comparison between his course in speaking of Lord Dundonald, and Lord Dundonald's course in speaking to a similar gathering in regard to the government and its administration of militia affairs.

The Suppressed Report

On Lord Dundonald's charge that the Minister had suppressed a part of his report, Sir Frederick said that it was his duty as well as his right to say what reports, or what portions of reports, should be issued from his Department. He did not consider that the publication of that part of Lord Dundonald's report under mention would be judicious. He still took that position. He would be willing to submit the report confidentially to a committee of members of parliament for their information and consideration, but he was not willing that it should be made public property at the present time. This was the position he took last year and he retained it. He did not consider it was well for a government to announce either the military strength or weakness of the country. He asked what was to be said of the patriotism which induced Lord Dundonald to make the avowing statement as to Canada's military weakness which he had done in his manifesto. The Minister read a statement of the improvements made in the militia administration since the present government attained power, in reply to the charge of government indifference to the militia of the country.

The speeches of both Ministers were clear, direct and conclusive, and when the Minister of Militia had concluded his statement the Dundonald affair was finished, except in so far as mis-statements of the facts can be used to arouse partizan and national prejudices for party advantage.

THE VALUE OF THE FAIR

Aside from the pleasure of attending the fair and the indirect benefit resulting to the members of the community from a relaxation from the ordinary occupations of life there is a direct and very large measure of benefit resulting to the community in which a thoroughly representative and properly conducted exhibition takes place.

As an educative factor such an exhibition has a place not to be dispensed. The practical lessons thus taught the younger members of the community—lessons which are all the more forcible in that they are demonstrated in realities, and not mere statements of abstractions—a fair is to a community an evidence of its capabilities and enables the residents to judge by comparison which of the resources of the district are turning out the most successful in development and to which the greater amount of attention, energy and money are being devoted.

To a western community this is especially true, where there are of necessity always in attendance many who are practically strangers to the resources and capabilities of the district in which they have cast their lots. A collection of the products of a district, is an unanswerable argument of its resources, an evidence which cannot be refuted by the statements of enemies, or denied by the pessimistic.

The fair this year is being visited by strangers from all parts of Canada and from the northern States of the republic. To these the exhibition should be evidence that the best which have been made of the richness of soil and the advantages of climate enjoyed by Northern Alberta have not been empty boasts—that we have the goods to show as the guarantee of our claims. For this reason the fair should be one of the most effective advertising agencies available. Statements as to what the district can produce, though they may be believed, do not come home with the same force to the stranger as the testimony of his own eyes. No abstract list of temperature and no expert testimony as to soil can so appeal to those who have not resided in the country, as the sight of a great collection of the products of the soil and climate in the form of grain, vegetables and stock. The exhibition is the most practical means possible of showing to the strangers in our midst what manner of country we have.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 50 cents.

A Pioneer Cane

Prince Albert Advocate:

An old pioneer, who was born in the Red River Settlement in 1848, died at Prince Albert last Saturday in the person of R. J. Pritchard. He was also one of the first settlers in the district of Prince Albert to where he had gone from Kildonan. He was the descendant of one of Lord Selkirk's colonists, and when a young man, was prominent in the Red River settlement. He was in the employ of Hon. Alfred Boyd, one of the first free fur traders, in the capacity of clerk in the early days, and while the facilities for obtaining an education at that time were meagre, he succeeded in becoming so well informed that up to the time of his death he was sought by many in search of advice and information. He farmed at Prince Albert and spent considerable money and time in trying to better the products and raise the standard of western beef. He brought the first thoroughbred cattle into the Northwest Territories and now leaves behind him one of the finest herds of pure bred animals in the west. He was a favorite with the Indians whom he tried to elevate. There was not a red man between Battleford and Kildonan who did not know him in the old days, and with the genial hospitality of the early settler he never locked his doors, leaving them open to the wayfarer and the stranger, red or white. He leaves a wife, two daughters and three sons. The daughters are: Mrs. John Norquay, of Winnipeg; and Mrs. Andrew Argue, of Prince Albert. He was also a cousin of Bishop Matheson and a brother of Archbishop Pritchard, of Winnipeg; Angus Pritchard, of Oak Lake; William Pritchard of Reburn; Mrs. Winters of Winnipeg, and Mrs. Hector Sutherland, of Kildonan.

The Religion of Japan

About fifteen years ago, the mikado was seriously considering the question of "Christianizing" Japan by imperial edict, and the project seems now to have been revived in another form. The Japanese would probably obey the edict loyally, but such a change would be only in name. The Boston Watchman, a Baptist paper, says that there is no spiritual element in the movement; it does not indicate an adoption of the Christian life, nor even an intellectual acceptance of the truths of Christianity. There would be merely a formal adoption of the name, so that Japan would rank with Great Britain and the United States as a Christian nation. The western religion would be donned like the western clothes. The number of voluntary converts to Christianity in 1902 was estimated to be about 200,000. The New York Globe says:

"Travellers listing the peculiarities of the Sunrise Kingdom, have often noted that the Japanese were not so much irreligious as non-religious. The habit of personal devotion, as we understand that state, seems almost altogether absent. The Shintoism and Buddhism which exist are secular rather than sacred. Hence it is that the Christian missionaries, although the government and the people are tolerant, have made little progress, the number of converts being pitifully small. Hence it also is (religion being deemed a public rather than a private thing, and one form being thought about as good as another) that the majority of the population would probably loyally obey the edict if the emperor, for secular or other reasons, should proclaim Christianity as the state religion. The clue to the Japanese character is patriotism. To the demands or supposed demands of this everything else is subordinate."

Hold-Ups Near Frank

Blairmore Times.

On Saturday evening a series of hold-ups took place just below Frank on the C.P.R. track. A. B. Dodd and Henry Cardinal being the victims, both of whom are employed by the C.P.R. at Bellevue. Dodd was the first victim and was relieved of a small amount in change and told to go. Shortly afterwards the robbers met Cardinal as he was returning from Frank to Bellevue, and held him up for his watch and $140 in his money. Upon his resisting he was roughly handled and otherwise maltreated. The robbers were reported to the police who at once became active in the case and with the assistance of the British Columbia police and the British Columbia police arrested the watch and caused the arrest of Thomas Jordan at Michel. Jordan was brought back to Frank and appeared before Judge Chambers on Wednesday, who adjourned the trial to allow of evidence being secured, until next Wednesday.

EDMONTON'S BIG FAIR

Glorious Weather and Every Prospect of a Great Fair
The Racers at the Stables. School Children's Parade

Sunny skies and fine summer weather marked the opening of Edmonton's big fair this morning. For many days past the favor of the elements has been the only doubtful quantity in connection with the event. Until Sunday things did not look promising in this connection but since that time the showery days have given place to a gradually rising temperature, yesterday being one of the matchless summer days in which Alberta finds reason for its appellation of "Sunny." It was an ideal day for racing, warm with little breeze and should the same sample be provided for the three remaining afternoons of the week no more could be asked for desired.

As early as Monday the strangers began to reach town and each succeeding train has brought its quota of visitors to the great event of the far North West. Those arriving on Monday and Tuesday were chiefly from a distance—prospective who wished to see the district and who timed their visit here to catch the fair. Crowds will doubtless come and go daily from the towns along the line and the attendance is confidently expected to distance anything of years gone by. Saturday will probably be the big day in attendance when the final events of the race program, including the $1000 free for all race will come off.

Early this morning the fair grounds were invaded by crowds of people watching the final preparations for the great fair. The Agricultural Hall now presents a remarkable sight, a magnificent monument to the productiveness of Northern Alberta's soil.

Agricultural products of every description and of surpassing quality are to be seen to the utmost profusion. The grains and grasses are splendid. In all lines the display far surpasses anything yet seen in Alberta's metropolis. The hall is crowded with sight seers, seeking profit in different ways. The fine art exhibits draw admiring throngs. The dairy products are exceedingly creditable while the merchants and manufacturers' exhibits are of a much more ambitious nature than in previous years.

Large numbers of live stock of the various classes occupy the stalls along the north and west sides of the grounds. In all these classes again the entries are numerous and highly creditable. All the live stock is being judged today.

Edmonton itself is at its prettiest. With her numerous and beautiful trees decked in their summer attire, on the high bank of the river, she presents to the sight seers from southern prairies at least, scenes of remarkable beauty. The exhibition grounds are a charming scene. The shady groves on the east side are being made liberal use of, affording as they do, a cool and shady retreat.

The fireworks will be a great drawing card for sight seers to-night. The other great attraction is the presentation of the popular opera, "The Mado," in the Rink Theatre, by the Beggar Prince Opera company.

WITH THE HORSEMEN.

The racing stable at the exhibition grounds is the horseman's mecca this week and presents a very busy appearance. Heretofore the exhibition grounds have not been equipped with a racing stable, but owing to the magnitude of this year's meet the authorities promptly decided to erect stables creditably alike to the city and to the management. Splendid accommodation is provided for forty four horses and to-day every stall is filled, the overflow being housed in the sheds along the west side of the grounds. Upwards of eighty horses are thus provided for. Never was the track in better condition and this is saying a great deal. Everything goes auspiciously to a splendid programme of keenly contested races. The horses are the best ever seen in Edmonton and with their speeding abilities combine a beauty of form and color seldom equaled. Running horses are much more numerous than trotters. The horsemen are loud in their praise for the accommodation provided on every hand and predict by far the most successful race meet yet held in the Territories. They point with pleasure to the lateness given by the sports committee. The thousand dollar "free for all" is a strong drawing card for the best horses in the West. This is a mark of great enterprise for it was only three years ago when the Winnipeg Fair management first raised the free for all to the one thousand dollar mark. The fastest of the Manitoba horses were expected to be in Edmonton but Portage la Prairie's races which are being pulled off at present conflicted with Edmonton's dates to the latter's disadvantage. The horsemen dread the long trip west and especially the two hundred mile trip from Calgary north in the miserable cars furnished by the railway company for this purpose.

Several expert drivers are on hand for the races, among others being Powell of Nanaimo, Ont., and Al. Proctor, very well known on Ontario race tracks, who drove Harold H. to his record, 2:14. A number of horsemen have splendid strings. Sporty McLaughlin of High River has a bunch of eight dandies. Beautiful Girl, a running mare, Ken Riley, a three-year-old gelding, Young Marlow, a four-year-old gelding, and Fiddlers, a two-year-old filly, are splendid horses recently brought up from California. Truly a fine boy gelding has been seen at Edmonton races on several occasions and as many times won out. Red Eagle, a splendid horse, was bred by McLaughlin, by imported Eagle Puma from Fortuna by imported Acrotic, dam imported Silver Cross.

These six are running horses. O. C. a pacer in the 2:14 class, has been seen on Edmonton tracks before. Sable Green, another horse, is also a trotter.

Matheson & McMillan of High River have three or four fine animals. Chic McGregor, a free for all, and Glide Away, Jr., the blind horse, are both well known in Edmonton. Denny Direct, a black horse, is also in their string.

Parlow of Calgary has three green horses, Clearwater being a promising bay pacer mare. He also has the well known standard bred stallion Sharper King.

Jim Young of Calgary has Gawnale, a California horse, which enters in the mile and mile and a quarter. This is quite a favorite with lovers of horse flesh.

Edly McKee of Calgary and Earl Stauffer of Wetsaskiwin have a couple of splendid ponies.

Geo. Gouin, Edmonton, has a string of fine animals, Lucy M. being the best known.

McAbee & Davis have three fine green running colts.

Chambers of Brandon has Strathly M. a splendid animal having a mark of 2:14-4.

McMillan of Medicine Hat has three running horses.

Jim Briggs of Graveland, Manitoba, has Red Wilks having a record of 2:18-1-4.

Art. Moody of Calgary has Prince Vale, having a mark of 2:16.

Provided the splendid weather holds out and there is no reason to expect otherwise, the Edmonton race meet for 1904 will doubtless very far surpass anything yet seen on the tracks here.

The following is a list of the different horses and their owners:

Following are the horses which were in the stables at the Exhibition grounds last night, and which will compete in the events of the next three days.

The Passing of the General

The Dundonald affair, which has furnished the Opposition papers of eastern Canada with a subject for attack upon the Government during the past couple of weeks, came up for discussion in Parliament yesterday on a motion of want of confidence moved by the Leader of the Opposition. The motion was as follows:

"That all the words after 'that' in the proposed motion be left out and the following substituted therefor:—

"The selection and appointment of officers in the militia should be made without party political considerations, which if permitted to exercise an influence will prove disastrous to the efficiency of the force."

"That while the minister of militia is charged with and responsible for the administration of militia affairs the general officer commanding is by law charged under the orders of His Majesty with the military command and discipline of the militia and with the duty of recommending to the minister of militia fit and proper persons for appointment therein."

"That the conduct of the Hon. Sydney Fisher, minister of agriculture, in interfering with the commanding officer of the Thirteenth Scottish Light Dragoons while that officer was engaged in selecting his subordinate officers for the approval of and for recommendation by the general officer commanding and his officers and in requiring recommendations and appointments to be made or disallowed from party considerations and should receive the censure of this house."

"The house regrets that this unwarrantable interference has been approved by the government, and that it has not only unduly delayed the organization of the regiment but has culminated in depriving the militia of Canada of an experienced and distinguished commanding officer."

Was an Attack

It will be observed that although the attacks made upon the Government were based first upon the dismissal of Lord Dundonald, second, upon the alleged neglect by the Government of the militia force, and third, upon the political interference of the Minister of Agriculture in the organization of a new battalion, Mr. Borden found it impossible to support the two first complaints, and in his motion carefully restricted himself to the third and least important. His attack was distinctly upon the Minister of Agriculture rather than upon the Government either in its militia policy or in its administrative act of dismissal of the general officer commanding. The fact that Mr. Borden found himself unable to maintain these two charges upon the floor of Parliament at a time when every interest demanded that he should make his case against the Government as broad and strong as possible, is the best answer that can be given to the verifications of the Opposition press on these subjects.

Woke Up the Wrong Passenger

Judging from the proceedings of the earlier part of the session in which the Opposition party seemed to have a great deal of fun with the Minister of Agriculture at very little expense—except to the finances of the country—it would seem that his chief attack was directed against him chiefly because he was thought to be a huge quiet man, who certainly does not look for trouble, and therefore has acquired the reputation in the minds of his opponents that he desires to avoid it. Possibly he does, but his speech of yesterday showed that when it cannot be avoided he can face it in a way that leaves nothing to be desired by his friends and much to be regretted by his opponents.

The speech of Mr. Borden was anything but effective. Whether he was hampered by political considerations of which these outside his party knew nothing; or whether he felt that he really had a case which gave him very little standing room, his presentation was most tame and was almost entirely confined to a reading and re-reading of the papers in the case which had been brought down. No one outside of himself and his friends knew what form his resolution would take until he read it to the House. It was with a great deal of surprise that its limited nature was learned, and therefore, it could not be known up to the last minute upon whom the duty of reply would devolve. The whole attack being directed against Mr. Fisher, it was up to him to reply, and he did.

The Farmer-Minister in Reply

His first allusion was to the pettifoggish tactics of the Leader of the Opposition in quibbling and distorting the papers which had been placed before the House and which he had read. This brought out a storm of protest from the Opposition, but the Minister stood his ground and from that forward the Opposition were on the defensive and accepted the situation quietly. He agreed fully with the sentiments of the first clause of Mr. Borden's motion objecting to militia appointments on political considerations. It was because he had objected to such appointments that his attack was made upon him. He claimed that as a representative man, he was able to give valuable advice as to the organization of militia in the country with which he was familiar, and he would be doing less than his duty if he did not. In regard to the organization of the corps in question, he at first drew the Minister's attention to the fact that an outsider, one not familiar with the district, had been appointed as Commanding Officer. The difficulty which he foresaw occurred when Colonel Smart, not familiar with that district, in selecting officers to complete the organization fell into the hands of a Tory family compact, who apportioned the offices of one of the squadrons amongst themselves. He did not consider that this would conduce to the good of the force, especially when the member of this family recommended for the position of major had no military knowledge. He took the position that while it was impossible to have all the officers qualified, the higher positions should be filled by qualified men and those not qualified should take the lower positions. He did not claim to be a judge of military matters but he did claim to have a knowledge of the people of that district with whom he was associated and to have the interests of the militia force and of Canada at heart. He asked the House to decide between his demand for a qualified man to hold the position of major, and that of the general officer commanding of an unqualified man to hold that position. The man he recommended for the position of major, from which Dr. Pickett had retired, was also a Conservative. He did not claim to be a qualified Conservative to be placed in a position superior to that of an unqualified Liberal. He did not accuse Colonel Smart of political motives in forming the organization as he did, but the results of his lack of knowledge were that the officers of the squadron as suggested by Colonel Smart would have made the squadron practically a Tory club. He had advised the withdrawal of the name of Dr. Pickett. Colonel Smart, saw, Dr. Pickett, discussed the matter with him, and informed Mr. Fisher by letter that Dr. Pickett withdrew from the position. Then, and not till then, Mr. Fisher, then acting as Minister of Militia, made the change in the list of officers of which change Lord Dundonald complained. Mr. Fisher charged that at the time Lord Dundonald spoke in Montreal he was aware of this letter from Smart to Fisher, and that he, Fisher, had cancelled the appointment on the strength of that letter, while acting as Minister of Militia.

Justified by Dundonald's Statement

In regard to the attack made upon himself in the motion, he said that the interference with the militia was the cause of Lord Dundonald's dismissal, and Lord Dundonald himself, in which he declared that he had deliberately chosen to break with the Ministry because of his difference of opinion with it in regard to militia administration, and that the action of Mr. Fisher was only the final incident.

Sound, but not Argument

E. D. Monk, French leader of the opposition, replied to Mr. Fisher and

LOCAL

—Train on time.

—The Sons of England hold an open session of the lodge in Sandison Hall on the 19th of July.

—Hobson's element went up to the mine for a new load of coal yesterday.

—The northbound passenger train on the C. & E. will arrive at Strathcona at 12:30 on and after 11th July, 1904.

—Meyer and Greave's outfit, consisting of two twenty ton scows, left Edmonton yesterday for Fort Pitt.

—The skeletons disinterred in the excavation for the Alberta College building will be re-buried in the new cemetery.

—Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan play the first game in the baseball tournament at the fair grounds to-night at 7 o'clock.

—See Stanley Welch as Koko in the Mikado tonight, the funniest part ever written. Don't miss it. Reserve your seats before noon. Closed after 12 o'clock.

—The Beggar Prince Opera Company has scored a decided success and the houses are increasing in size every night. Tonight, The Mikado.

—The dog catches began operations on Thursday and five canines now await in frenzied anticipation the appearance of their owners. The dogs may be found in the pen at the nuisance ground.

—Teachers will be granted the usual cheap rates to Eastern Canada this season. This information was conveyed to Principal Rea this morning in a note from C. P. R. Agent English of Strathcona.

—The fire brigade had a practice run last night. The hose was connected at the Imperial bank and a colony of swallows which had nested under the eaves on Garriep & Leonard's store were subjected to a deluge.

—Jas. McDermald, homestead inspector, returned on Monday from a trip to Ledou, Millet, Waskewin, Duhamel and the other districts lying east of the C. & E. In that vicinity crops are a rule are good and prospects are bright for a good season.

—The trip of the Alberta Belle to Fort Pitt has been postponed and she will probably go down on Monday. During the week some repairs have been made to the machinery, some trouble being experienced with this during the last trip. She was run out yesterday to test the repairs.

—Nanton News: C. S. Lott's visit to Nanton last week didn't seem to have a good effect, as all the outlying residents lots are now held at $75. This may be a good showing as far as real estate goes, but is not the consideration of the growth of the town to be looked to. This action is nauseous when the large tract of vacant land around Nanton is yet available.

—Nanton News: After a visit to the several towns to the north, E. Rodgers, of McGregor, Manitoba, came to Nanton last Thursday and visited until Saturday. His mission was to locate an elevator, and after a drive through the country and talking with the influential men of Nanton, he was favorably inclined to the prospects offered here.

—On the evening of the 14th inst. the Baptists of Nanton held a meeting for the purpose of organization, the Rev. Kempton of Okotoks, assisting. Several names were handed in by parties who were desirous of becoming members. A call had been made for a pastor, and Rev. J. P. Hunter, of Fairmont, N.D., accepted the call and will conduct his first services at the Nanton schoolhouse in the afternoon, at two o'clock, on the Sunday in July.

—Free Press: An immigration specialist carrying the Chinamen who have been deported from the United States by way of Malone and Montreal, arrived in the city this afternoon shortly after two o'clock. There were between 200 and 300 of the Celestials on board and in addition there were several cars of Europeans. The Chinamen will be taken back to the coast and taken back to their own country on the first departing steamer.

—The Ponoka Herald says: "It is not surprising that the bulk of the immigration this season that gets as far as Calgary is going into southern Alberta. There is a class of knoekers in that city who seem to have little else to do than denounce the northern country, as they call it. Not a good word can they give the home-coming place except the country immediately surrounding Calgary or south of there. It may be to Calgary's interest to thus attempt to retard the settlement of northern Alberta and their false representations may for the time being have their effect. The northern Alberta will, despite all efforts of opposing districts prosper and come out one of the richest sections of the great west."

—Lacombe Globe: Friday evening at 5:15 p.m. the alarm fire was passed through our busy thoroughfares and it proved to be a very hard blaze to deal with, as the old feed stable at the rear of the Maxwell House, Nanton street, was throwing out great clouds of smoke and flame. The building was a frame structure, 25x36 ft., two storey, the second storey being well filled with hay, which made very good fuel for the hungry flames. The fire department was prompt and in fifteen minutes from the time the alarm was turned in the Waterous gasoline engine had a stream of water drenching the adjoining buildings, as it was useless to try to save the doomed structure where the fire originated.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pattison and family came in yesterday from White Horse Lake to attend the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Walker, of Fort Saskatchewan came up yesterday and will remain over for the fair.

Musical Instruments

Have a peculiar charm for us when we hear the sweetest strains of the mandolin and violin our hearts are thrilled with their joyful message and sorrows are for the time forgotten. "Music hath charms" certainly is as true as the gospel. Without instruments of some sort your home is lacking one pleasant feature. Why not purchase a mandolin now? We have a number of these instruments to offer at prices within your means. Call at our store and look over our musical instruments.
